HOW AWARE R U?

ANSWER KEY

1. b.

2. c.

3. c. Amanda Lenhart et al, Pew Internet & American Life Project, Teens and Technology (2005), at www.pewinternet.org.

4. c.

5. b. Amanda Lenhart et al, Pew Internet & American Life Project, Teens and Technology (2005), at www.pewinternet.org.

6. c.

7. c. WTGP is an invitation for your child to chat one-on-one online. Predators typically use such private chat rooms to speak with your child exclusively, and solicit personal information.

8. b. Amanda Lenhart & Mary Madden, Pew Internet & American Life Project, Social Networking Websites and Teens (2007), at www.pewinternet.org.

9. a.

10. a. Eric Benderoff, Cheating a real problem in Club Penguin's virtual world, Chi. Trib., Mar. 8, 2007, at 1.

11. b. Eric Benderoff, Cheating a real problem in Club Penguin's virtual world, Chi. Trib., Mar. 8, 2007, at 1.

12. b. National Center for Missing & Exploited Children, Online victimization of youth: 5 years later (2006), at www.unh.edu/ccrc.

13. c. LMIRL means "let's meet in real life." Parents should pay close attention for this shorthand because predators often spend time chatting on the Internet in an effort to make children feel comfortable before inviting them to meet personally – in real life.

14. b. Press Release, Children's Advocate John Walsh et al., New Study Reveals 14% of Teens Have Had Face-to-Face Meetings with People They've Met on the Internet (May 11, 2006), at www.coxenterprises.com.

15. d.